Dear Mr. Pintzuk:

Since my husband is away this wee kend, I am taking the liberty of replying to your letter of yesterday.

Owing to a prior commitment, it will not be possible for him to attend your discussion meeting on Friday, April 21. As for giving you a more convenient time for him to address your group, that is difficult to do because he is already overcommitted on the very limited free time he has for at least the next two months, having made commitments well in advance of starting the work he is now engaged in, which is of a priority nature and is also almost a month behind schedule.

I am sorry I cannot be more responsive to your letter.

Sincerely,

Lillian Weisberg
